Tutoring Experience

My tutoring career began in 2007, initially focused on guiding A-Level and IGCSE students through challenging Maths and Physics courses. Over the years, I have expanded my expertise to include preparation for PAT and other admissions tests like MAT and STEP, offering tailored support for students targeting top universities in the UK and Europe.

In my 16 years of experience, I've tutored undergraduates in mathematical methods and computational mathematics while mentoring students for Oxbridge admissions. I have worked closely with diverse curriculums, helping learners excel in advanced topics such as quantum mechanics, differential geometry, and calculus. Many of my students have secured places at prestigious institutions.
